Can anybody please help me to resolve this problem. Thanks in advance. A: You do not need to use the tag for inline elements, therefore remove it from your HTML. You should put a closing bracket for each html tag like:

html test.php ", " ", $word); $word = str_replace("/tr", " ", $word); $word = str_replace("/ /", " ", $word); echo $word; ?> A: The correct way to do this is to not use a form, but rather a method. Your best bet here is to just use JavaScript to read the contents of the form. function showOutput(form) { var xmlhttp = new XMLHttpRequest(); xmlhttp.open("POST", "", false); xmlhttp.send(form.querySelector("input[name=word]").value); } And in the response.php you'd do something like this: /", " ", $post); $post = str_replace("/tr", " ", $post); $post = str_replace("/ /", " ", $post); echo $post; ?> Also, your question in your question suggests you're confused on how to use regular expressions, so I'd recommend you go through some of the tutorials on the regular expression page. Accuracy and reproducibility of exposure durations measured by accelerometers. This paper is a study of the accuracy and reproducibility of exposure durations measured by accelerometers.
