The aim of this study was to investigate the anti-oxidant activity of rosemary (Rosmarinus officinalis L.) leaves ethanol extract (RE) against alpha-tocopherol oxidative damage. RE and alpha-tocopherol were tested in the NIH9 cell line against oxidative damage induced by 4-hydroxynonenal (4-HNE). The activities of antioxidant enzymes superoxide dismutase (SOD), catalase (CAT) and glutathione peroxidase (GPX) were measured in cells. The LDH and NOx levels were also determined to assess the toxicity of RE. RE decreased 4-HNE cytotoxicity in a dose-dependent manner and this effect was more evident in cells pre-treated with RE. RE improved SOD, CAT and GPX activities, and decreased LDH and NOx levels. RE showed low toxicity, without altering cell viability and increased anti-oxidant enzyme activity. Moreover, RE is a potent anti-oxidant with low toxicity.Boogie Board for Android™ features This 2d92ce491b
