If any FreeBSD developer sees a bug, the stream can be reviewed in minutes. For each commit, a summary is produced with the author of the commit, a short description and a link to the commit. A SHA-1 checksum is included for each line in the stream, and a checksum fingerprint is generated from that. SHA-1 fingerprints are the most widely used form of checksum, and are usually thought of as reference fingerprints. Cadence publishes new products as open-source software packages.
